Iris von Arnim
Line Knitwear

A family run company for over three decades, internationally acclaimed fashion designer Iris von Arnim is known as the 'grandmother of cashmere' in Europe. The line is recognized as one of the top German brands of its generation and previous collaborators have included Claudia Schiffer. Von Arnim also heads the largest European young designer competition, the Apolda European Design Award. About Line Knitwear: Combining their distinct confidence in style and appreciation for simplicity, long-time friends John Muscat and Jennifer Wells recognized the need to revolutionize the face of knitwear in hopes to produce quality knits that accommodate both practicality and style. A timeless staple for any woman, Line exudes feminine class and luxury while identifying the need for comfort and ease.
